Personal Details:

Full name: Philip Anthony Banno

Address: 6 Tremain Ave, Kellyville NSW 2155

Date of Birth: 8th November 2001

Phone: 0431088042

Email: philipb989@icloud.com

Drivers Licence: Provisional Driver

Personal Statement:

I consider myself to be a self-motivated and diligent person in both my academic and personal aspects of life. I enjoy setting myself challenges and goals and finding the best way to reach them. I have always had a thirst to learn new skills and a curiosity about the unknown. Team sport has always been an important part of my life and I have found that besides enjoying the social aspect of team sport it has always helped me to remain focused and energised with my school work and to work alongside others. Personal health is very important to me, I exercise regularly, eat well and make sure I get enough sleep to help with the demands of senior school years. I like to play the piano in my downtime and also enjoy being creative with photography, music and videography - continually learning new skills in these areas.

Personal Goal:

As I am currently completing the HSC Exams my foremost goal is to have a successful application to The University of Sydney to complete a degree in Civil Engineering. I aim to work consistently throughout the course and participate in all aspects of 'uni life'. I hope to work my way up to a respected position in a successful engineering business specialising in being environmentally considerate as I appreciate the ongoing importance of supporting the world we live in. In the long term, I hope my career will offer challenges that I will be driven to overcome and a sense of satisfaction with its successes that will also enable me to enjoy a comfortable lifestyle. I aim to continue playing cricket and work my way up Grade levels enjoying all the game has to offer.

To Whom It May Concern,

It is with confidence that I recommend for your attention Philip Banno.

Philip enrolled at Oakhill College in 2014 and will complete the requirements for the Higher School Certificate in November of this year.

He is an extremely reliable and honest young man who displays strong interpersonal skills. The College has always been impressed by the respect and compassion he shows towards others. Philip has an immense capacity to care for others and a strong sense of social justice. This is most obvious in his involvement in College community service programs where he was involved as a Gala Day Assistant 2019.

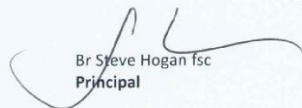

Philip is an extremely well rounded individual. At an academic level, Philip has always demonstrated initiative, dedication and commitment to his studies. He has always demonstrated a willingness to explore ideas, think critically and make sound judgements. His teachers and peers speak highly of his academic dedication. His achievements include the Consistent Effort and Application Award 2018/2019.

While at the College Philip has displayed leadership qualities, which have been evident through his roles as House Captain and Lasallian Youth Leader (Gold level). Philip, in these roles, has demonstrated a willingness to lead through action and has shown initiative in various College activities.

Through Philip's years at the College he has been hardworking, disciplined and energetic in the achievement of his personal goals. His ability to be innovative while remaining receptive to the ideas of others shows his depth of character. He is balanced in his approach to study and extra-curricular activities which is reflected with his Principal's Award (Level 2) and through his involvement in Cricket (1st's) 2019.

Philip possesses a wide range of balanced qualities that will ensure his success in any field of endeavour. Oakhill College recommends Philip as a talented and level-headed young man and wishes him well in his future endeavours.

My best wishes go with Philip for the years ahead.

To Whom It May Concern

I have known Mr Philip Banno as a student at Oakhill College for the past six years. During this time, I have come to know Philip well and have developed a high regard for him as a person.

Philip is a very friendly, well natured person who relates well to all with whom he has contact. Elected as a House Captain, he has led by example in his wholeheartedness, his honesty, his application to his studies, his initiative and his involvement in a range of College activities. He has an exemplary record of conduct and punctuality. This year he received a Perfect Attendance Award for no days absent from school.

Philip is a very gifted and talented young man. He has proven himself to be a diligent student and his academic results have been exceptional. This year he received First Place in Geography and Third place in Physics. Such success is well deserved, as he places a great deal of importance on doing his best. Philip was a recipient of a Level 1 Provincial's Award.

As his teacher, I found him to have an excellent understanding and interest in the content. His written responses are detailed and explicit, with clear reasoning. He has shown proficiency in areas of research and displayed competence in applying information and communication technologies. He also demonstrated a thorough understanding of related contemporary issues and the ability to critically discuss them.

Philip has been prominent in the co-curricular life of the College. He represented the College in 1st XI Cricket. He was also a Gold Lasallian Youth Leader and has participated willingly in numerous school and community service activities.

To all his involvements Philip brings a welcome energy and cheerfulness as well as reliability and sound judgement. He has excellent time management skills, sets realistic goals for himself and works towards them in an independent manner. He is humble, reliable and very highly regarded and respected by all at Oakhill College.

It is my firm belief that Mr Philip Banno, a young man of integrity will become a first-class citizen. Philip would be an asset to any institution or prospective employer to which he may apply. I commend him to you and support his application without qualification.

Yours sincerely,

Mr Robert Munday (M.Ed.)

Letter of Reference – Philip Banno

To Whom It May Concern,

I have known Philip Banno and the Banno family for 7 years. In that time, I have had the distinct pleasure of coaching Phil in club and representative cricket programs in my capacity as Director of the Parramatta Cricket Academy (PDCC). Although an outstanding athlete and cricketer, the abiding aspect of Philip's cricket journey is the extraordinary character he has displayed during that journey. There are two aspects in particular which illustrate his extraordinary character and maturity.

Firstly, Philip participated in 2016 Tour of Goodwill to Sri Lanka, working tirelessly to raise money and collect cricket equipment for children orphaned during the boxing day Tsunami. On that tour, Phil featured in a number of important ambassadorial engagements, notably in the previously war-ravaged northern region of Jaffna, where the tour played a match against a local school for the first time since the end of the civil war. Philip participated in a tour of an orphanage housing children with disabilities providing them with toys and learning tools from Australia. His efforts in engaging with the local children were heart-warming and genuine.

Secondly, having worked hard for 12 months to prepare for a cricket tour of the UK in 2017 with the Parramatta Cricket Academy, Philip tragically injured his knee (ACL) a few weeks before the tour departed. Although devastated that he couldn't attend, Philip bravely presented himself at the pre-tour training sessions and functions, providing unwavering support to his touring teammates. His selflessness being a natural feature of his character and personality and making him a truly loved member of the group.

I also know that Philip is an outstanding student and a very highly respected member of the Oakhill College leadership group. For these and many other smaller reasons I wholeheartedly recommend Philip for this scholarship. Please contact me directly should you require further insights or clarification.

Sincerely,

Matt Roughan

Assessment

The Senior Report indicates student performance in both Semester One and Two, as well as the Cumulative Assessment Rank for the year.

Cumulative Rank

The cumulative rank is the ranking of the student after each formal assessment task and in accordance with the weighting of each task as outlined in the assessment schedules. This ranking may change following each assessment task, or as a result of illness / misadventure appeals as decided by the school assessment committee.

It is important that students reflect on their performance and discuss areas for improvement/development with their classroom teacher.
